New Business

Alec went through the Expert Panel presentation regarding, the SFL stormwater testing remediation and safety. Water sampling results showed a marked improvement over the past five years except for the period Woolsey Canyon fire, but since then the results of testing continued to improve. Pairing the results of the amount of rain each year the sampling, results met Waterboard Safety Standards except for one or two chemicals. The few exceedances were at the microbe level.

Late last year the Waterboard ordered a risk-based study to be made for the major outlets from the SSFL. The Panels analyzed test results against the expected usage of the site as a recreation area and human use, and found that all of the calculated results were within US EPS and Cal EPA safe limits.
